To Whom It May Concern:

I am pleased to recommend Chris Jarosz, CPA as a consultant for accounting projects relating to financing and constructing new facilities. For the past six months, Mr, Jarosz has been an integral member of the finance and construction team for the American College of Chest Physicians (ACCP), a medical specialty society serving nearly 19,000 members worldwide. Mr. Jarosz was hired to assist with completing a tax-exempt financing for the ACCP's new 48,500 S.F. Silver LEED-certified headquarters in Glenview, IL as well as to serve in an advisory capacity to manage the construction process and to ensure that the pencil and draw requests conform to the project budget.

Mr. Jarosz's diverse expertise in accounting with a specialty garnered through his professional affiliation with a construction firm and his ability to identify cost savings as well as participate in the selection of subcontractors made him an invaluable asset to augment the resources of the College's Chief Financial Officer and accounting team.

Mr. Jarosz played a multiplicity of roles including participating in the negotiations of the construction agreement, finalizing the guaranteed maximum pricing, tracking expenditures, and consulting on cost effective solutions to purchases of equipment and the reduction of subcontractor fees.

Mr. Jarosz's professional demeanor, keen understanding of client needs, and ability to integrate with staff resulted in cost savings to ACCP and economies of scale that will have positive budgetary impact for many years. Please contact me at sdavies@chestnet.org or at 847-498-8330 if you have further questions about Mr. Jarosz's work on behalf of ACCP.

Sincerely,

P. Stratton Davies, CPA
